→ AND cultural planning course

15, 16 & 17 February and 15 & 16 March 2012

>> course details

CAN WA uses a practical teaching approach that combines the theory and practice of cultural planning in an interactive, hands-on, and creative way. Speakers and participants from previous courses have come from a multitude of backgrounds including local government, planning, community services and cultural and art related fields.

The Community Engagement and Cultural Planning Course covers the following concepts:

- Community cultural development
- Creative community consultation and engagement
- Cultural mapping
- Cultural planning and evaluation

>> units of competency

The Community Engagement and Cultural Planning Course addresses the following Units of Competency from the nationally endorsed Local Government Training Package:

LGACOM502B Devise and conduct community consultations.

LGAGOVA606B Devise and maintain a community cultural plan.

Upon successful completion of the course assessments, participants are awarded a nationally recognised Statement of Attainment.

This course will fill up quickly! Fill in the attached enrolment form and return via phone, fax or email by 31 January 2012 to gain a place.

>> participant feedback

'After completing the theory component of the course I had the confidence to develop a Cultural Plan for our Shire which has now been adopted by Council and included into the budget and Strategic Plan process.'

One of the most valuable components of the Creative Networks Course was the opportunity to network with industry colleagues, opening the door to partnership projects.' Louise Stokes, Community Development Officer, Shire of Nannup
